

I pay a monthly fee to have my phone. I need it for my family matters. I believe that I should have the right to ask people or business's not to bother me at all. If they want to pay for my phone bill every month then they can call me 24 hours a day. Until that happens I do not want to be bothered by them. I make 30,000 dollars a year. I have 4 children. I have lots of bills. I couldn't even think of purchasing anything that they have to offer anyway, so why call me? My feeling are the same for Cell phones. I do not have one(I can't afford it). If I could afford one, it wouldn't be so these people could bother me with something that I'm not interested in to begin with. Tell them to help the USPS. Send a letter to me with 37 cents postage like I have to pay. (Stop this inexpensive presort mail). Who are these people anyway? Leave me alone. They have no right to contact me at all. If I need their services, I'LL call them. Tell Them To Go Find A Real Job. Something with meaning, like, go work in a hospital and help people
